SKU – Stock Keeping Unit – Most people refer to the number of items they offer in their web-store as a SKU

Part Number – We must track more than the SKU level. For example: You may offer a shirt in 2 colors, and the shirt comes in sizes XS, SM, MD, LG, XL, and 2XL (6 sizes). Each color/size combination must have a part number to track, so you will have  $2 \times 6 = 12$  part numbers in our system to match up to the same combinations in your web store. Web store software packages refer to these combinations as variants.

Skids (based on a skid size of 48x40x60), approximately how many skids locations will you need?

Please describe anything you think we should know about your business or additional services you would like us to address, such as on-line inventory reporting, email confirmations, and order tracking:
